

Are you surrendering your cat because of potty issues?

The number one thing is to contact your veterinarian. Cats develop potty issues for specific reasons and the majority of the time, it is because of a bladder infection.

Most often they have a urinary tract infection and the behavior can be changed with some simple medical treatments. Other times the issue stems from changes in the household, litter box placement or stress. Please talk to UPAWS staff or your veterinarian about how you can help your kitty.

UPAWS has a “Pet Behavior Help” Link with a multitude of helpful behavioral solutions.

Visit: <http://upaws.org/educationbehavior/>